7th
science

Steampunk
Technologies

Steampunk Technologies

Steampunk Technologies, which has been developed to teach dynamic optimisation together with product development and quality management, is a strategic management simulation that provides experience of a holistic perspective

While directing R&D and quality strategies during the simulation, participants learn to pay attention to financial constraints and to support their strategies with operations management

7th science