

TALENTUM COMPANY

*Strategic Talent
Management
Simulation*

Talentum Company

As well as being an important part of HR management, Strategic Talent Management is also critical for making company strategy practicable. In our Talentum Company game, you will have the chance to observe the effect on your company's total performance of the company policies related to talent management that you set.

- During the simulation, while achieving growth, you will need new employees and more managers.
- You will determine not only the number of employees but also development strategies related to competence. The effectiveness of your training policies will gain importance on the road that leads you to success.

- As well as improving competences for all positions, developing your management skills will also be vital for furnishing your future with success.
- With the strategies you develop for increasing company loyalty and your employees' motivation, your wage and promotion policy will on the one hand lead you to success and on the other, create cost.
- While playing Talentum Company, you will have an incomparable experience in which you will implement your talent management, recruitment, promotion, wage and training policies in harmony with each other, and learn how to increase the strategic success of the company

